

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

This conference is designed for lawyers, educators, law enforcement, and interested members of the public. TCLEOSE credit for law enforcement in Texas is pending for 6 hours.

ABOUT THE CENTER FOR TERRORISM LAW

Founded in 2003, the Center for Terrorism Law is a nonpartisan, nonprofit, Section 501 (c) (3), academic institution dedicated to the study of current and potential legal issues related to terrorism. Housed in a $700,000 fully operational research facility, the Center is affiliated with a variety of strategic institutions - educational, government, military, and business - to address issues that have impact across multiple disciplines related to homeland security concerns.

SEMINAR FOCUS

This is a follow-on seminar to the November 7, 2014 event regarding the same topic. The Seminar presents a unique opportunity for leaders in education and the general community to receive critical information on the full range of issues – legal and policy – related to the threat to the United States posed by ISIS and the domestic jihadist. Because the War on Terror is the nation's longest war, it is a matter that directly impacts all levels of society. Not only will internationally recognized subject matter experts provide the latest developments regarding the major elements of domestic terrorism as it impacts national security, the seminar will also concentrate on identifying all of the myriad legal and policy challenges associated with confronting this threat. In addition, participants will receive actionable information regarding solutions and future trends to include the need for increased cooperation between the public sector and the government. At the conclusion of the seminar participants will be able to understand the distinction between “enemy combatant terrorists” and “domestic jihadists.” Participants will also have a clearer understanding of what motivates and drives the jihadist to commit acts of violence in the name of religion.
